THIRD QUARTER REPORT
SEPTEMBER 30, 2015

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

Dear Fellow Shareholders,

The third quarter was tumultuous for equity markets. The S&P 500 fell 6.4%, sending the year's return into negative territory with a decline of -5.3%. The Energy and Materials sectors bore the brunt of the quarter's market selloff. While also subject to the weakness in energy and other commodity stocks, the Adams Natural Resources Fund's total return on net assets of -20.6% over the first nine months of the year compared favorably with the -22.5% return of the Lipper Global Natural Resources Funds Index.

Early in the quarter, markets were buoyed by the news that Greece had reached a deal with its creditors. This was followed by a stream of positive economic data from the U.S. and Europe. Retail sales accelerated, labor markets continued to show improvement and GDP growth for the first six months of the year was revised upward to 3.9%. But these signs of economic strength were not enough to insulate the markets from global economic concerns.

The initial trigger of the market's instability came from China, where the decision to devalue its currency in August led to investor doubts about global economic growth. Fears over China's falling demand for raw materials, coupled with excess supply, resulted in a further step down for commodity prices. The Federal Reserve's September decision to leave U.S. interest rates unchanged, despite falling unemployment and reasonably strong domestic economic indicators, further disappointed investors. As part of its decision, the Fed pointed to the lack of inflation, the strength of the dollar and concerns about growth in China and other emerging markets.

None of the subsectors in Energy were immune from the decline but refiners, benefiting from low cost crude and rising gasoline demand, fared better than most energy stocks. A solid balance sheet and integrated asset base resulted in better relative performance for ExxonMobil.

In the Fund, we have limited our exposure in companies most sensitive to the commodity price and to capital spending cuts. For example, in Energy we have avoided drilling companies and focused instead on larger, diversified service providers. In Materials, our strategy has been to focus on chemical companies, especially those that benefit from lower commodity prices. An example is our LyondellBasell position. The company benefits from a long-term structural cost advantage relative to its foreign peers. Lyondell is advantaged by its access to low cost U.S. natural gas liquids (mostly ethane, propane, and butane) while foreign competitors use more expensive oil price-based inputs.

A new stock in the Fund, PPG Industries, also benefits from lower energy prices. As the leader in the global coatings industry, PPG has significant gross margin expansion opportunities ahead from a reduction in raw material costs, most notably resin. We anticipate incremental volume growth as key end-markets (construction and autos) continue to recover. Additionally, its recent acquisition of Comex, a paint manufacturer and retailer in Mexico, provides an additional growth platform.

We also added to our position in Spectra Energy, a pipeline company that processes and transports natural gas. Spectra's strategically-located assets and diversified midstream operations offer stability as well as attractive growth prospects. Relative to its peer group, the company has the lowest direct commodity price exposure.

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS (CONTINUED)

For the nine months ended September 30, 2015, the total return on the Fund's net asset value ("NAV") per share (with dividends and capital gains reinvested) was -20.6%. The total return on the market price of the Fund's shares for the period was -22.8%. These compare to a -22.5% total return for Lipper Global Natural Resources Funds Index over the same time period.

For the twelve months ended September 30, 2015, the Fund's total return on NAV was -31.2% and on market price was -31.9%. The comparable return for the Lipper Global Natural Resources Funds Index was -34.5%.

Net assets of the Fund at September 30, 2015, were $21.58 per share on 27,392,910 shares outstanding, compared with $27.56 per share at December 31, 2014, on 27,380,920 shares outstanding. On March 2, 2015, a distribution of $0.10 per share was paid, consisting of $0.02 net investment income and $0.06 long-term capital gain, realized in 2014, and $0.02 of net investment income realized in 2015, all taxable in 2015. A 2015 net investment income dividend of $0.10 per share was paid on June 1, 2015, and another net investment income dividend of $0.10 per share was paid on September 1, 2015. These constitute the first three payments toward our annual 6% minimum distribution rate commitment.

By order of the Board of Directors,

Mark E. Stoeckle
