Dear Fellow Shareholders,

After the steep sell-off at the end of 2018, the stock market reversed course in the first quarter. The S&P 500 increased 13.7%, its highest first quarter return since 1998. Our Fund outperformed the S&P, increasing 14.0%. These returns were supported by optimism about a U.S.-China trade agreement, combined with signals from the Federal Reserve that it does not plan to raise rates in 2019.

During the quarter we felt the disruption of the longest U.S. government shutdown ever, saw Britain's plans to exit the European Union unravel, and a second summit with North Korea abruptly end with little progress toward denuclearization. Even with this "wall of worry" as a backdrop, the market moved higher throughout the quarter, resulting in its highest quarterly return in a decade.

"Consumer Discretionary, Health Care, and Communications Services were the biggest contributors to our relative outperformance."

Ongoing concerns about the health of the global economy and the Fed's accommodating position combined to push long-term interest rates lower. This resulted in the U.S. Treasury yield curve inverting for the first time since 2007. An inverted yield curve occurs when short-term rates are higher than long-term rates and, in the past, has often been a precursor of an economic downturn. While this is one signal that the economic expansion may be nearing an end, there are several indicators that support continued growth, including a strong labor market, low levels of inflation, and renewed momentum in the housing market.

The strength in the stock market was broad-based as all sectors in the S&P 500 were positive for the first time since the second quarter of 2014. In our Fund, while all sectors generated positive returns, our investments in Consumer Discretionary, Health Care, and Communications Services were the biggest contributors to our relative outperformance. Financials and Energy generated positive returns, but underperformed relative to their benchmarks.

The Consumer Discretionary sector was a standout for the Fund, increasing 18.4%. Our position in Chipotle Mexican Grill, which increased 64.5%, was a significant contributor to the Fund's return. Chipotle has delivered strong results as its new turnaround initiatives focused on marketing, menu innovation, and loyalty have begun to take hold. We believe the company is in the early innings of this turnaround.

During the quarter, we increased our exposure to the growing beauty category. The “selfie generation” is driving sales of cosmetics and skin care and Ulta Beauty is well positioned to benefit from this trend. Ulta is a leading specialty beauty retailer that offers a unique mix of prestige and masstige (affordably-priced) cosmetics, skincare, and haircare in one store. Its exclusive offerings with top brands drive traffic to its stores and website and have enabled it to generate strong top and bottom line growth. We expect the company to continue to outperform given its significant unit growth potential and margin expansion opportunity.

Our Health Care investments were also a key contributor to overall returns. While the sector was up just 8.7%, our returns significantly outperformed due to strong stock selection. Our holdings in biotech performed particularly well, led by Alexion Pharmaceuticals, which increased 39.0%. During the quarter, the FDA approved its next generation Soliris drug, which is a highly effective treatment for many rare diseases. We added Amgen to the portfolio's biotech holdings. In our view, the company is trading at too low a valuation given its strong new product pipeline. During the quarter, we also added Zoetis to our Fund. We like that Zoetis' focus is on animal health, which carries less regulatory and government risk than traditional pharmaceutical companies.

The Communications Services sector also generated strong returns for our Fund, increasing 17.2%. This new sector replaced the Telecommunications sector in September 2018, and now includes media companies such as Walt Disney and Netflix, as well as technology companies such as Facebook and Alphabet. Our position in Netflix, the leader in on-demand streaming services, increased 33.3% for the quarter. With over 150 million subscribers worldwide, Netflix clearly has the first-mover advantage and its competitors continue to struggle to keep up.

While the rest of the market cheered the Fed's decision to hold off on raising rates, the Financials sector, which increased 8.0%, lagged the overall market as lower rates and a flatter yield curve will negatively impact the sector's profitability. Diversified financials was the weakest group in the sector. Our holdings were more defensively positioned with investments in Intercontinental Exchange and Berkshire Hathaway, which benefited us in the fourth quarter of 2018, but hurt us this quarter. On the positive side, we did see the re-emergence of merger and acquisition activity in the banking sector this quarter when BB&T and SunTrust announced plans to merge. While we find the combination compelling over the long-term, we believe the integration could be challenging. With SunTrust shares up 31.4% through mid-February, we chose to exit our position in the stock.

For the three months ended March 31, 2019, the total return on the Fund's net asset value (“NAV”) per share (with dividends and capital gains reinvested) was

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS (CONTINUED)

14.0%. This compares to a 13.7% total return for the S&P 500 and a 12.9% total return for the Lipper Large-Cap Core Funds Average over the same time period. The total return on the market price of the Fund's shares for the period was 14.8%.

For the twelve months ended March 31, 2019, the Fund's total return on NAV was 12.1%. Comparable figures for the S&P 500 and Lipper Large-Cap Core Funds Average were 9.5% and 7.7%, respectively. The Fund's total return on market price was 12.2%.

During the quarter, the Fund paid distributions to shareholders of approximately $5.3 million, or $.05 per share, consisting of $.02 net investment income and $.02 long-term capital gain, realized in 2018, and $.01 net investment income realized in 2019, all taxable in 2019. On April 16, 2019, an additional net investment income distribution of $.05 per share was declared for payment on May 31, 2019. These constitute the first two payments toward our annual 6% minimum distribution rate commitment. Additionally, the Fund repurchased 194,763 shares of its Common Stock during the past three months. The shares were repurchased at an average price of $14.18 and a weighted average discount to NAV of 14.5%.

The bull market reached its 10th year in March, and we are mindful of this as we manage our portfolio. We continue to search for investment opportunities that can outperform in volatile markets. We appreciate your trust in us and are focused on delivering consistent investment returns for shareholders by identifying quality companies that are executing at high levels and trading at attractive valuations.

By order of the Board of Directors,

Mark E. Stoeckle
Chief Executive Officer & President
