

ADAMS DIVERSIFIED EQUITY FUND

Formerly The Adams Express Company®

THIRD QUARTER REPORT
SEPTEMBER 30, 2015

LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

Dear Fellow Shareholders,

The third quarter was tumultuous for equity markets. The S&P 500 fell 6.4%, sending the year's return into negative territory with a decline of -5.3%. Adams Diversified Equity Fund performed better than the S&P 500 for the first nine months with a total return on net asset value of -4.9%.

Early in the quarter, markets were buoyed by the news that Greece had reached a deal with its creditors. This was followed by a stream of positive economic data from the U.S. and Europe. Retail sales accelerated, labor markets continued to show improvement and GDP growth for the first six months of the year was revised upward to 3.9%. But these signs of economic strength were not enough to insulate the markets from global economic concerns.

The initial trigger of the market's instability came from China, where the decision to devalue its currency in August led to investor doubts about global economic growth. Fears over China's falling demand for raw materials, coupled with excess supply, resulted in a further step down for commodity prices. The Federal Reserve's September decision to leave U.S. interest rates unchanged, despite falling unemployment and reasonably strong domestic economic indicators, further disappointed investors. As part of its decision, the Fed pointed to the lack of inflation, the strength of the dollar and concerns about growth in China and other emerging markets.

The Energy and Materials sectors bore the brunt of the quarter's market selloff. The Fund's holdings in Marathon Petroleum, a refiner, and its large position in ExxonMobil helped cushion the weakness in oil service and exploration & production stocks. On the other end of the spectrum, Utilities was the only sector delivering a positive return in the quarter. An announced takeover of one of the Fund's utility holdings, AGL Resources, contributed to our positive return.

Apart from economic worries, the Health Care sector was hit with headlines focusing on pricing and health care costs. Biotech companies, including portfolio holdings Biogen and Gilead Sciences, in particular were punished. Political posturing from presidential candidates regarding health care costs put temporary pressure on the stocks, but masks the potential we see for the sector.

The market's decline in the last three months provided opportunities to increase our commitments in high conviction holdings as well as establish positions in new stocks. Microsoft was one of the positions we increased. The growth of cloud revenues and the recent strong expense discipline affirmed our conviction in the company. New positions were initiated in two stocks that benefit from reduced commodity prices. Recent concerns about capacity additions in the airlines provided an attractive entry point for Southwest Airlines. We believe the industry dynamics remain supportive in the long run and Southwest is uniquely positioned domestically. In the near term, low fuel costs are driving excess cash flow, which is funding increased share buybacks and expansion. Another new position, PPG Industries, also benefits from lower oil prices. As the leader in the global coatings industry, PPG has significant gross margin expansion opportunities from a reduction in raw material costs, most notably resin. We anticipate incremental volume growth as key end-markets (construction and autos) continue to recover. Additionally, its recent acquisition of Comex, a paint manufacturer and retailer in Mexico, provides an additional growth platform.

We also identified an attractive company in the Consumer Discretionary sector, adding Polaris Industries to the portfolio. The company is a recognized leader in the powersports industry. High quality off-road consumer and military vehicles and motorcycles are among their products. Multiple revenue growth drivers include innovation, increased distribution domestically, international expansion and market share gains. Also, improvements to Polaris' manufacturing operations offer margin expansion benefits.

For the nine months ended September 30, 2015, the total return on the Fund's net asset value ("NAV") per share (with dividends and capital gains reinvested) was -4.9%. The total return on the market price of the Fund's shares for the period was -5.8%. These compare to a -5.3% total return for the S&P 500 and a -6.2% total return for the Lipper Large-Cap Core Mutual Funds Average over the same time period.

For the twelve months ended September 30, 2015, the Fund's total return on NAV was -0.4% and on market price was -0.6%. Comparable figures for the S&P 500 and Lipper Large-Cap Core Mutual Funds Average were -0.6% and -2.2%, respectively.

Net assets of the Fund at September 30, 2015, were $14.93 per share on 95,419,646 shares outstanding, compared with $15.87 per share at December 31, 2014, on 96,286,656 shares outstanding. On March 2, 2015, a distribution of $0.05 per share was paid, consisting of $0.02 net investment income, $0.01 short-term capital gain, and $0.01 long-term capital gain, realized in 2014, and $0.01 of net investment income realized in 2015, all taxable in 2015. A 2015 net investment income dividend of $.05 per share was paid on June 1, 2015, and another net investment income dividend of $.05 per share was paid on September 1, 2015. These constitute the first three payments toward our annual 6% minimum distribution rate commitment.

The Fund repurchased 883,800 shares of its Common Stock during the nine months ended September 30, 2015. The shares were repurchased at an average price of $14.00 and a weighted average discount to NAV of 13.8%, resulting in a $0.02 increase to NAV per share.
